Doug, as you know, I don't have the resources that you and your clients do. The media is my resource, it's about shining a light to bring accountability, not getting publicly for myself. There are many stories that run without me in them that I generate and order to get accountability.

I will check in with the FEC and if I get somebody on the phone I will mail them myself I didn't realize there was an amendment when I filed my complaint, and I will just update the complete if necessary.

Based on You're response, I'll move forward with the assumption that you are saying bank records we're not submitted with the amended report. At this point, I am of the opinion that the SEC should ask for them in an effort to confirm that this was indeed a mistake.

It would just seem beneficial to you and your client to prove it to the FEC, and to me is the complaint. There's no easier way to set the record straight.

Your call,
William
